JAKE. Oh, hello -- I'll be with you in a second, just as soon as I dump this waste basket. There -- who am I? Yep, you guessed it. I'm the guy you see sweeping up the paper sacks and ice cream wrappers you drop. But I don't mind. You see, I get paid for it.

I've been at Alhambra about as long as anyone, I guess. I sweep along year after year and watch the school and you kids. Pretty good kids for the most part; a few ornery ones, but that's to be expected. We have a few who look pretty promising too.

It's been just an average year. Of course the war has kept lots of people jittery. We had atom bomb warning charts put up in all the rooms. And some of the fellows enlisted, and one got killed. The student legislature howled a little louder than usual, since it's their second year. But outside of that it's been just an ordinary year with the usual football games and dances and homework. In lots of ways it is different I guess. And it's those little differences that matter so much to you seniors. This is the last year you can slouch on the front porch or lie on the library lawn or fall asleep in history. I suppose the little things do matter to you, even if they don't to me.

Maybe I ought to start out by telling you a few things about Alhambra. You probably aren't much interested, but just in case your folks are looking over your shoulder, we'll say a few things. The fellow that could tell you best is probably Doc Scharer. His office is just down the hall. He's pretty busy, but I don't think he'd mind if we bothered him for a minute. (He props his mop against the jamb of the double-doored office, then sticks his head inside.) Oh, Doctor Scharer.

DR. SCHARER. Yes?

BOARD OF EDUCATION

MR. IRVING HANCOCK
President

MRS. OSA McALLISTER
Vice-President

DR. SAMUEL BROADWELL

MRS. MARY CORNELIUS

MR. WILLARD CLARKE

MR. GEORGE YELLAND
Business Manager

JAKE. Would you mind stepping out here for a moment to tell a few folks about Alhambra High.

Folks, this is our principal, Dr. Norman B. Scharer. Would you please tell us a few things about our school?

DR. SCHARER. I'd be glad to. Well, let's see. For size we have about twenty-two hundred students. We draw from Alhambra, Monterey Park, San Gabriel—even some from Temple City. A few come here on permits too. As for the school itself, it's made of brick and stucco. A few new buildings—the main building here was built in 1924; the others are older.

The name comes from the Alhambra in Spain. It seems to fit; the Valley is not unlike the Spanish countryside around the fortress castle. . .

JAKE [Interrupting] What about the Board of Education?

DR. SCHARER. The Board of Education is one of the most important groups in the community. There are five members, one representing San Gabriel, one from Monterey Park, and the others from the Alhambra area. They meet on the first and third Mondays of each month.

JAKE. Yep, guess the Board is pretty important. Say—how'd you folks like to look in on a meeting for a minute? That woman knitting over there is the representative from the teachers' club; she comes to the meetings along with other interested folk. The man in front of her is Doc Broadwell. He and his pipe are the oldest board members—been on for twelve years. Now that's Mr. Stokesbary talking to those people; he's the Deputy Superintendent.

MR. STOKESBARY. So we're always glad to have visitors. This is our agenda for the meeting; we have it printed up ahead of time so we can study it. The issue under discussion now is the purchase of the Crown City Ranch for a new high school. We've had a little trouble about the land though. Someone was dumping tree stumps on the fifty-yard line of the proposed stadium, but Mr. Yelland finally straightened out the matter after appealing to the Alhambra

City Council, which in turn brought the trouble to the Pasadena Council's attention. JAKE. Very nice man, Mr. Stokesbary. His home is in Alhambra with his family. He goes to all of these meetings and sits at the foot of the table there. Now Mr. Yelland isn't elected like the rest of the Board. His job as business manager is a full-time occupation. His secretary's the gal on his right taking notes.

MR. HANCOCK. [Reading aloud] "... and so I would like to express my appreciation for all your help during my years of teaching.

Sincerely,
VEDA WALKER"

MRS. MACALLISTER. A very nice letter from a fine teacher.

JAKE. That little lady who just spoke was Mrs. MacAllister. She and her husband own a store up town. Doesn't say much but has a good head on her shoulders. On the right side of the table, leaning back in his chair, is Mr. George Bettinger, boss of the whole works. He's an easy going sort of fellow, and the people seem to like him. Must be plenty interested in educating the children around here.

George E. Bettinger, Superintendent of Schools, Maurice R. Stokesbary, Deputy Superintendent of Schools.

MR. CLARK. ... and I wish you would consider this matter carefully. I know what our present policy is, but in the presence of ...

JAKE. That fellow who just spoke was Mr. Clark, president of last term's board. He speaks well; he is a businessman, also a bishop in the church. Mr. Hancock, this year's president, teaches Sunday school and was on the Y. M. C. A. Board. Nice 'ppearance too. Guess the meeting's over now. Oh, nearly forgot Mrs. Cornelius, who's sitting next to Doc. Her active part in our town includes giving book reviews, speeches, and that sort of thing. Let's hear what she's saying.

MRS. C. Well, we certainly achieved a lot tonight. Why I can remember when ...

JAKE. Thank you, Mrs. Cornelius. Night folks.

JAKE. They say nobody knows the boss like his secretary. [He approaches the door on the Fourth Street side of the school, starts down the steps, stops.] Down here is the Senior Office. Along about this time every day the secretaries take time off for a kaffeeklatch and has over thee day's events and gossip. Some of it gets pretty interesting. I'm not much of a hand with women, so we won't go in. We'll just listen—you can't exactly call it prying, since you can hear these gals across the street anyway.

IMO. My, but it's a relief to get away from that "class" I teach. What those boys won't do. Today one of them stomped in and demanded to get out of school to go to his great-great-great grandmother's funeral. I decided that was a job for the health department, so I sent him down there.

VIVIAN. You don't have an easy time of it, Imo.

IMO. I know, but Mr. Gray is the one who has really been working hard. What with working with the Commission every day, scheduling all our football and basketball games, and being generally responsible for student activities, he's a busy man. Then, in between these, he's the chief trouble shooter around here.

[This gabby little gathering is suddenly drowned out by what sounds like a giant centipede in high heels, clomping down the stairs above.]

MAYBELLE. There goes Mrs. Crosswhite with her penny. I guess the cop who checks for overtime parkers is around. I wonder why she doesn't use a nickel—it would save her a lot of trouble. But she claims that after that stint of buying furniture for the League Room with such a limited expense account, she can't stop rushing around. Worrying about all the girls at AHS keeps her going, too.

VIVIAN. You think you have trouble keeping track of Mrs. Crosswhite! I have seriously considered putting Dr. Scharer on ice in the vault just to have him around in order to sign things and see people. That man can be in forty different places inside of a minute. When Gwyn takes my place, she'd better learn to trip him as he goes by. And just to make the job of cornering him a little harder, he drives a truck-load of food down to Arizona to the Navajo Indians. Incidentally, did you know that Dr. Scharer must have wanted to look like a real Santa Claus to the Navajos because he didn't shave all the time he was gone or, for that matter, all during Christmas vacation? He looked like one of those House of David basketball players.

MAYBELLE. I had an uncle who used to wear a beard, but—

JAKE. That's enough from them. I have to get back to work.

COUNSELORS

[Jake enters the hall in the West Wing, now deserted, and grimaces once as his eye catches the color combination at the stairway. Then, picking up his broom, which has been propped over the war-torn gossip box, he begins to sweep. The door at the end of the corridor opens, and Mr. Mills enters.]

JAKE. Good evening, Mr. Mills. Working a little late aren't you?

MR. MILLS. Hello, Jake. I guess I didn't realize it had got so late. Boy, I bet I'll see enrollment cards all night in my sleep. Have high school kids always had so many problems?

JAKE. I kind of think so. They've always dropped their sandwich wrappers and sacks.

[Mr. Kemp and Miss Turnbull enter from the opposite door of the Counselor's Office, each with the same "beat" expression.]

MR. KEMP. Hello, Jake. You working still?

MISS TURNBULL. And here comes Miss Strickland. That makes it unanimous. I'm glad they enroll only once a semester.

MR. MILLS. What course should a flagpole sitter take?

MISS STRICKLAND. I'd say Senior English, but I've never had one.

MR. KEMP. Latin would be as good as anything, or maybe algebra.

MISS TURNBULL. Am I glad I've got my B9's. They haven't had time to get any wild ideas yet. But they all grow up.

MR. MILLS. It would certainly be a switch to have someone come in and say his program was just fine the way it was.

MR. KEMP. That's an idea! But after enrollment we still have flunk notices.

MISS TURNBULL. You're thinking way ahead of me.

MISS STRICKLAND. Well, I'm about ready to call it a day. Good night, people.

[In turn they echo their good nights and plod out to their cars, and then homeward. And Jake is left alone in the hall with a day's load of papers and rubbish.]

COUNSELORS Miss Kathleen Strickland, Miss Ruth Turnbull, Mr. Leland Mills, Mr. James Kemp.

CHILD WELFARE

[Soda fountain at McKay's across the street. A man and woman are wearily enjoying cokes. They seem to have the weight of the world on their shoulders. The woman speaks first.]

MISS LEONARD. Mr. Stover, was Herman at school today?

MR. STOVER. No, but I called. When he answered the phone, he said his mother was away. He insisted he had chills, a fever, and a bad cold—could hardly come to the phone.

[With a knowing smile she takes another sip of her coke.]

MISS L. By way of the grapevine I heard he was having a big English test today, but of course that couldn't be the reason for his cold.

MR. S. Strange things keep Herman out of school, but he'll be back when that work permit expires. That always brings them back.

JAKE. Will Herman come back? Will he have a good excuse? Tune in next week and see.

FACULTY

JAKE. Well, now you've seen a lot of different people who run our school. I've often wondered why there have to be so many—why we can't cut down a few here and there. I reckon a lot of students wonder why we can't cut out the next group completely—the faculty. Maybe by peeking in on some of their classes, we might get an "inside" story.

PUPIL. Mr. Lenser, what is the German verb for hit?

MR. LENSER. Hit? Say, you should have seen the way I hit a golf ball last Saturday. You see, the ball was here . .

[He proceeds to draw a diagram on the board, the German verb forgotten for the next few minutes.]

JAKE. Then, of course, there is the other extreme — like some of those teachers with a do-or-die policy. And speaking of dying, isn't that Mrs. Elsey running in to her first-aid class?

MRS.. ELSEY. Girls, there has just been an accident. Poor Lisa has the measles. Now what shall we do to protect her eyes?

MRS. ELSEY. This is no time for foolishness! Doris, why are you pouring water on that girl?

DORIS. I was only trying to find the floating rib.

JAKE. Maybe we had better get out while we still have our own two legs. You know, the other day I heard of the twelve-weeks' course in home-reporting the teachers had to take. Let's ask Miss Beeman what it was like.

MISS BEEMAN. Those home-reporting groups are the ! ? : / ; meetings I have ever attended. You sit in a room for two and a half hours, learning to UNDERSTAND the actions of present high school students. Now if I . . .

JAKE. [Interrupting] We had better cut it there. They could arrest her for what she's thinking. Well, now we have had a look at the other side of the fence. If you look at the faculty as a group, those men and women are human; sometimes it's hard to believe, but they are. Least of all, you can't run a school without them.

Two of the most forceful personalities in Alhambra's half century of existence retire this year. Miss Veda R. Walker and Major George C. Elsey, U. S. Army, Retired, leave to enjoy other pursuits and interests. By present accounts the end of the school year will find Miss Walker in Germany with her family. Major Elsey trades his school desk for one in the office of a nationally known investment firm, where he will become an investment counselor. May their new activities provide all the pleasure they so richly deserve.

*HOW FRANCES

To satisfy a desire which she had long harbored, Frances Von Helms, Dr. Scharer's secretary and everybody's friend, left Alhambra High School early in the semester to work at the Faith Mission in the land of the Navajos. We admire you for your tremendous courage and wish you well, but we do miss you, Frances.

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

JAKE. Schools today are fortunate to have such an interested group of people as the members of the Parent-Teachers Association behind them. With the support of the P.-T. A. there is no limit to the good that can be done. But Mrs. Clark, the president this year, tells it best.

MRS. CLARK. We are proud of our organization. Also, we are particularly pleased over our ability to satisfy the increased requests for student loans. We are pleased, too, to know our Thrift Shop has weathered the storm and now seems firmly established.

LET'S MAKE MUSIC

JAKE. It's been a hard day! [He puts his broom down, walks into W25, and slumps down into a back seat.]

MRS. RYAN. [Walks into room.] Hello, Jake. What are you doing here?

JAKE. Just resting my weary bones a bit. I think that Monday is the longest and hardest day of all the week.

MRS. RYAN. I won't refute that statement, Jake. My day was a little bit more lively than usual today because I had another meeting with the W'51 Council.

JAKE. Are there many on the Council?

MRS. RYAN. Just seven people — six boys and one girl. Pretty handy for the girl; she hasn't missed many council meetings this semester.

JAKE. Any real characters in the group?

MRS. RYAN. Well, they are all pretty rugged individualists. They have had a lot of fancy ideas but a rather usual year. I really enjoy working with them.

JAKE. Well, I guess I'd better mosey along now. Funny how those hard wooden seats feel so comfortable about the time you have to get up.

[It's June and the last week of school. As Jake is sweeping the patio, he finds an annual lying on the bench.]

JAKE. Someone seems to have lost this annual. I wish these doggone kids would hang on to their belongings. Let's look through it and see if we can find the owner. Ummmm! Seems to belong to a senior. Golly, these notes lay it on thick; let's read this one.

[Reads aloud.]

Dear June,

Just think, we're graduating. I'll never forget when we started here four years ago (more in some other cases), and we never thought we'd ever be seniors, much less graduates. It's been a wonderful life though; some of my best times have been right here at Alhambra High. Remember all we did in our first three years and our mad senior year? Our yellow senior sacs were loud but beautiful, and our play, ARSENIC AND OLD LACE, was a riot. We were so happy when we ordered the cards and announcements, and I practically died when it came time for caps and gowns. Now our four years are finished. I hate to say it, but I'm a little sad. It's been wonderful, every minute of it, but there's still a lot ahead of us. Well, good luck and may life always be as good as it has been here. [He closes the annual thoughtfully.]

JAKE. You know, most of those long letters are pretty useless, but some way or other this one kinda strikes me. Do you suppose most of these kids really have feelings? Could be, could be.

SENIORS W'52

DOM. You know, Mr. Phillips, our class is neither fish nor fowl; we're sorta in between. We're not the big shots this year. Neither are we the struggling juniors who try their best to outdo those who planned the previous prom.

MR. PHILLIPS. And you must realize that winter classes, because of their size, usually have the reputation for not accomplishing as much as they should. Perhaps some winter classes lack enthusiasm.

GLORIA. I don't think that fits our class. As far as I can see, we don't have to take a back seat for anybody.

JOAN. How's that?

GLORIA. According to a recent survey, our class has a greater percentage of Scholarship members than any other class in school.

ALL. Yep, we're a bunch of smarties; just vultures for culture.

JUNIORS

JAKE. [Calmly walking down the hall of the West Wing, he is nearly knocked to the floor by a gang of girls dressed in hula skirts.] Wonder what in the—they are doing! There's Miss Liesveld. Maybe she knows.

MISS LIESVELD. Hula skirts? Oh! Those kids are on the Junior Council. They are trying out their plan for the prom. That's the real event of the year for them.

JAKE. But why hula skirts?

MISS L. This year's theme for the prom is a moonlit night in Hawaii. We are having beautiful leis, dreamy music, and the perfect atmosphere that will lift you up on a cloud and transport you to that Paradise in the Pacific. Doesn't it sound wonderful?

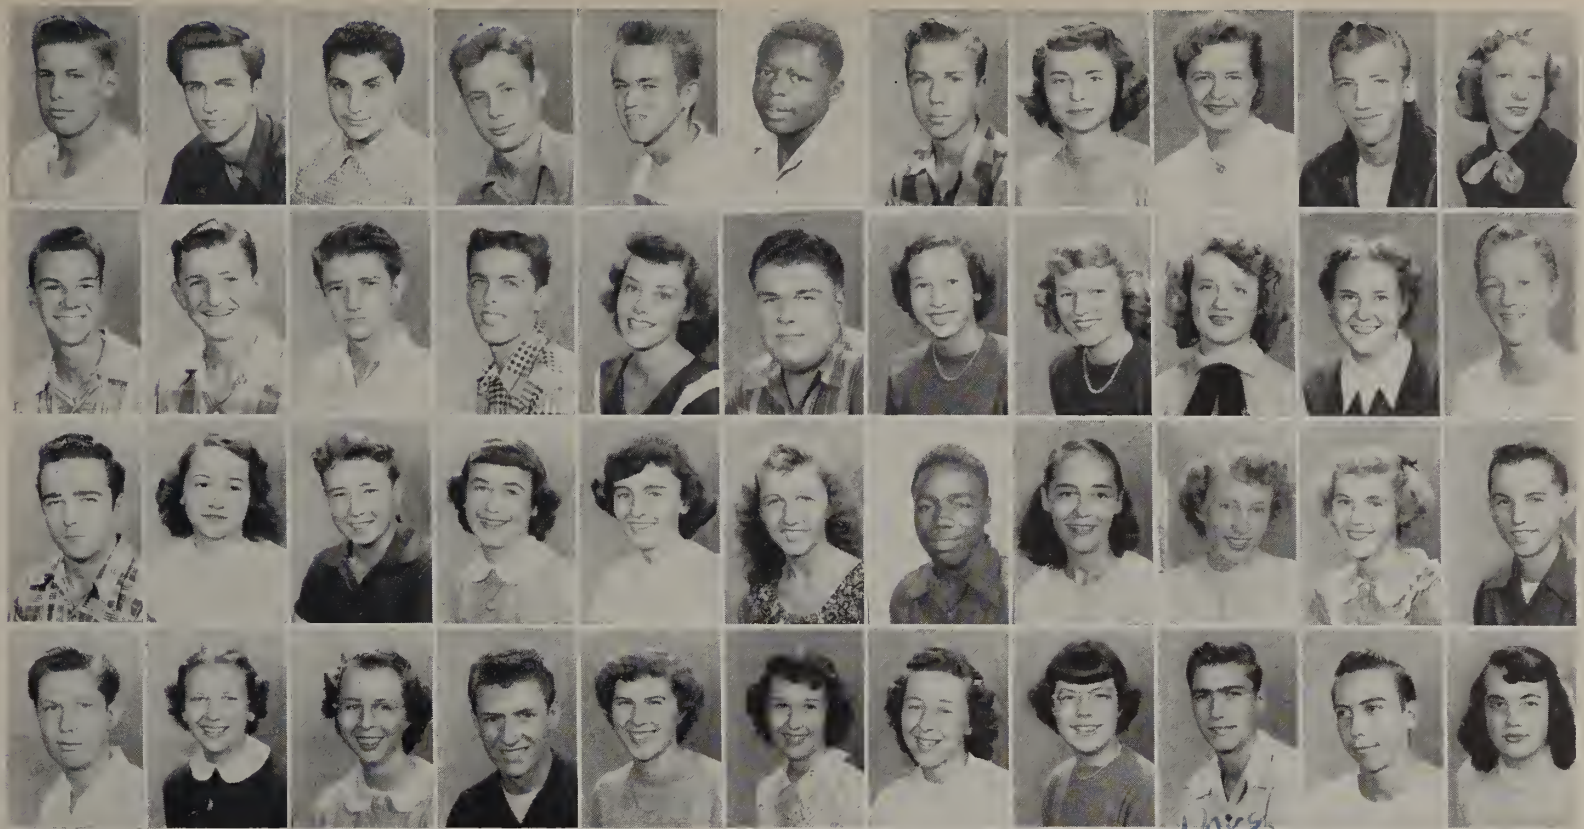

JAKE. I feel thirty years younger already. But then, I'd better get on with my sweeping.

SOPHOMORES

A 10 CLASS OFFICERS Dondanville, Johnson, Wilson, Smoyer (adv.).

B 10 CLASS OFFICERS Lenser (adv.), Martin, Hopper, Ogle, Schirmer.

[Jake empties a trash can, sets it down, and watches the students rush in around him, kicking papers thither and yon, shouting, pushing, laughing. Two students dally a moment or two in front of him.]

FIRST STUDENT. Hey, did you know we're having a picnic with the B-11's at Alhambra Park? Sounds pretty good, too. They're going to have class competition — softball for the girls and touch football for the boys. And then there's a nail driving contest for girls, too. Chipped nail-polish and sore thumbs.

SECOND STUDENT. When's it going to be? I'll go if I can.

FIRST S. It's on Tuesday, May eighth, I think.

SECOND S. Say, we'd better get going. It's late. Oh, well, another class, another merit.

[They scurry off; the crowd thins. Then a bell rings, and the thunder dies. Jake breathes a sigh of relief and, looking down, he notices he is standing ankle deep in papers. Resignedly he begins to sweep.]

JAKE. (muttering). At least I don't have to clean up after their picnic.

FROSH

A 9 CLASS OFFICERS Kunc, Day, Daugherty, Hughes, Hooper (adv.).

JAKE. Mr. Hooper, since you and Mr. Fuller were the advisers of the freshman class this year, maybe you ought to tell us a little bit about them.

MR. HOOPER. Well, since Mr. Fuller has gone to the armed forces, I guess I'll have to speak for everyone. The Seniors of 1954 showed real promise this year, for they were an active group. For class elections so many members were candidates that it was necessary to hold both a primary and a final election. A very successful roller skating party at the Moonlight Rollerway during January drew a good crowd. Then they planned a dance, which was, unfortunately, abandoned. They are now thinking of a class picnic. They —

JAKE. Hold on. What with all these activities, you're making the Moorbabes sound like seniors instead of frosh. At the rate they're going there won't be any new things left for them to do as seniors. Well — maybe a few.

[Jake is sweeping the walk in the patio. A terrific noise is heard and he turns around to see where it came from, but no one is in sight . . . so he begins sweeping again. Another unearthly shriek splits the quiet; this time Jake has a determined look on his face as he listens for the noise. At the next sound he rushes to the location from which it came and looks into the basement windows of the auditorium. Perched on, and sitting behind, some battered desks are some serious looking students—all listening to Mr. Gray.]

VOICE. Hi, Jake. I'm late to Commission again or I'd talk to you.

[Jake turns in time to see a student rushing down the back stairs of the auditorium.]

A GROUP OF VOICES. Well, better never than late. Glad you could come to the meeting.

FIRST VOICE. Wow! This place sure smells musty. Someone open a window. Are we going to choose a movie for assembly?

SECOND VOICE. Yes, I'll read the list so we can get an idea. [He reads a long list of titles which occasionally bring a murmur of approval or a disheartening groan.]

THIRD VOICE. Say, that picture with Farley Granger really sounds super. He's so handsome. Do you think we could get it, Mr. Gray?

MR. GRAY. Maybe. What about a Jeanne Crain or a Lana Turner movie; I like them.

GIRL'S VOICE. Now, Mr. Gray. Personally I like Cary Grant. Is there a picture with him?

BOY'S VOICE. What difference does it make? We get outta class, don't we?

[Jake walks away from the window and starts his sweeping again.]

JAKE. When I hear all that commotion, I feel sorry for Mr. Gray. Maybe sweeping's not so bad after all.

AS WE GO TO PRESS

It all happened this way. During that long, skull-cracking stage of incubation, when more worthless ideas for annuals than you can shake a stick at are nurtured, we found ourselves constantly harassed by a man with a broom. No matter when or where a meeting was scheduled, the janitor wanted to clean THAT room at THAT time.

MR. E. If he gets in on as many other meetings as he does here, I'll bet he is the best informed man on the campus.

BILL. If he knows that much about things in general, let's get him to put out this cock-eyed book.

LORRINE. If we can't get him to help actually, we could blame him for it.

MARILYN. Mrs. Boone and her staff would have a field day showing him in that flashy, checkered shirt.

DON. He's a nice guy. He would be pleased if we asked him for some suggestions.

MIKE. All right, what's holding us up?

MRS. BOONE. Say, all this prittle-prattle gives me an idea.

THE STAFF. And so it is with a deep bow, from the waist, that we salute you, Jake. Why, you practically saved our lives!

[In the basement of the West Wing Jake cautiously approaches a door labeled MOOR STAFF ONLY. He stops and glances about with a condemned look.]

JAKE. This is one door I don't like to open. It's worse than Fibber McGee's closet. It's not that we have such a bad school paper—in fact, I think it's pretty good—it's just that it's dangerous in there. Well, here goes nothing. [He opens door.] Wha—why no one's here, only Mr. Tajima, the adviser. And it's clean—not even a scrap of paper on the floor. What goes in here, anyway?

MR. TAJIMA. We've been making a few changes around here lately. The old order has changed somewhat. We now have two journalism classes—fifth and sixth periods. The beginners concentrate on technique, and the more advanced students work on the paper. Then, too, we have set up a more comprehensive publicity agency to give news about AHS doings to other newspapers. And we have managed to keep the gossip column as small as is humanly possible.

JAKE. That's all fine, but it still don't explain why everything is so clean.

MR. TAJIMA. This is Friday afternoon. Nobody stays after school today, except me sometimes. Thursday is our deadline. By Friday the ads have been taken, the heads made up, the stories are written, and the Alhambra MOOR is ready to go to press. There's nothing to stay for. I was just about ready to leave myself. Shall we go?

JAKE. Yeh, I guess. But it just don't look right to me.

STUDENT LEGISLATURE

As the scene opens, Jake is striding down the aisle of the auditorium. He is not too pleased.

JAKE. This student legislature is always grumbling about something. Now they want heat in the auditorium. Hmm, sounds like something's being hashed over. Let's listen.

FIRST REPRESENTATIVE. I think we should . . .

SPEAKER. Excuse me, but you didn't address the chair. Everything here must be done according to parliamentary procedure.

FIRST REP. Very well. Mr. Speaker, I think we should do something about the food here.

SECOND REP. Mr. Speaker, if we had a private person come in with his hot dogs, conditions would improve.

THIRD REP. Mr. Speaker, I disagree. Now I think we should appoint a committee . . .

PARLIAMENTARIAN (self-appointed). Committees yet! Do you know that a committee is only a group of incompetents appointed by an unthinking person to do the impossible . . . ?

SPEAKER. You're all out of order.

JAKE. And they're asking for heat. Their arguments ought to keep the place pretty warm. Wonder how much they get decided. Well, it's a swell place to blow off steam, and they do learn something about settling their own troubles. It's a good thing.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

BOYS' FEDERATION

GIRLS' LEAGUE (left to right) Row 1: Murphy, Clark, Cook, Martin, Burkhart, Breslin, Malmgreen, Campbell. Row 2: Crosswhite (adv.), Murray, Hansen, Mann, Sumner, Gladwell, Wells, Darr, Brookshire.

JAKE. There's Mrs. Crosswhite and the Girls' League president in the office now.. That new furniture they're sitting on caused quite a commotion at first; the stuffing had a terrible smell. When I swept in there I had to wear a clothespin on my nose. After the smell was fixed, the gals flocked back to comb their hair and put on a smudge of lipstick; and some even cut class, I heard, to take a nap on the couches. Something important is going on in there now. Wonder what's up?

LEAGUE PRESIDENT. Gee, wish I had a hundred dollars of our own!

MRS. CROSSWHITE. Maybe we can borrow some money from the Federation. They seem to have quite a bit. [Exit.]

LEAGUE PRESIDENT. Huh! I already tried that, but they keep their loot in a Jack Benny vault, and no one can get near it. [She jumps up and starts pacing back and forth with a worried expression on her face.] We have to have some money to put on the new girls' party and the senior teas, and we should send a representative to the convention in Arizona.

[Three hours later of the same day.]

MRS. CROSSWHITE. Did you try again?

LEAGUE PRESIDENT. Yes, but Mr. Gray said we could have it only over his dead body.

MRS. C. Well?

L. P. He makes quite a lump under the rug, doesn't he?

JAKE. For the first part of this year there was a name that seemed to be gone from Alhambra. No one even whispered "Boys' Federation" all semester. At least if he did, I never heard him. All the Federation seemed to do was find new ways not to spend the one hundred dollars allotted to them. It's a wonder the government didn't catch them for keeping currency out of circulation.

But the second semester was a little different. If I remember right, I even had to clean up after an assembly put on by the Federation. They really splurged—blew their whole wad. Then after they finished, they went out looking for a little more to start a swimming pool fund. May take quite a while to get anywhere close to the cost, but its really a pretty good idea. Practically every other good school around here has one but us.

DEBATE

JAKE. Every afternoon, about this time, Slim cleans out the Commercial Building. He says most of the rooms aren't so bad—except maybe that debate room, C11. Here come two of those debaters now. I can just barely hear what they are saying.

FIRST SPEAKER. Say, how did you like that Redlands tournament last week? It even started on time for a change. I only half died of hunger, and I actually made it home by midnight!

SECOND SPEAKER. Don't tell me! I wasn't there, but I sent you a good cheer telegram. Did your teacher show it to you?

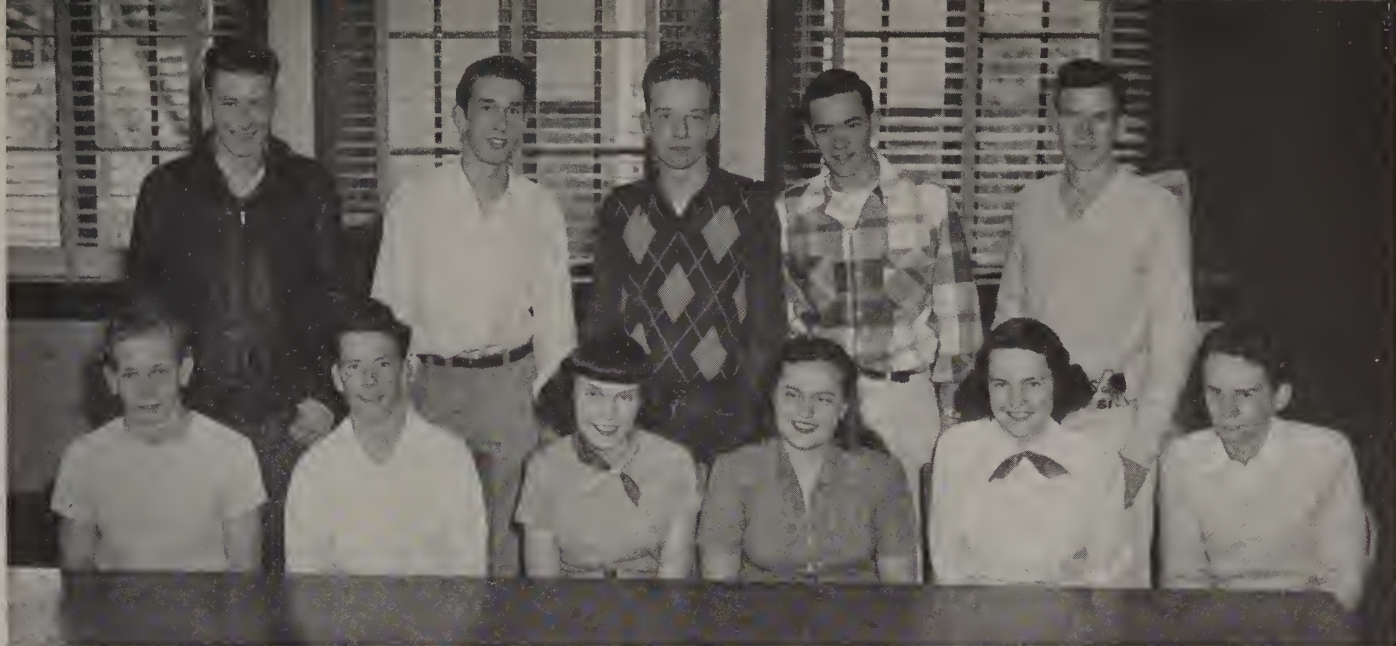

FIRST SPEAKER. We all saw it. What was the idea anyhow? When the other contestants read it, they nearly died laughing.

SECOND SPEAKER. Laughing! Well, I like that! All I said was: "We expect wins!"

FIRST SPEAKER. That's not the way we got it. Take a look.

JAKE. Something must be mighty funny. They're about to bust a button. Say, they dropped the telegram—let's see what it says.—"We expect twins." That is a little different now, isn't it? I wonder if either one of those kids ever won a trophy? The debaters bring lots of credit to the school. Well, I must be getting along now.

OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY

JAKE. I didn't get to see the W'51 class play, OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY, so I can't tell you much about it; but here are two boys, two stagehands, who do know something about it. They are talking it over after a rehearsal.

FIRST STAGEHAND. I sure don't want to be around any more when Cornelia runs through her seasick scene.

SECOND STAGEHAND. Pretty realistic, huh?

FIRST S. And how! I haven't felt so sick since I took my first puff on a cigar!

SECOND S. Say, did you ever find out what they were doing with those trash cans?

FIRST S. Yeah, they're using them for trunks for the steward to carry into the girls' rooms in rehearsals.

SECOND S. Quite a similarity between trunks and trash cans!

FIRST S. Why is everybody making like he's got the seven-year itch?

SECOND S. Doesn't it beat all? The scratching has been going on ever since they rehearsed the bedbug scene.

FIRST S. You know, I think this play's going to be pretty good.

SECOND S. I think so too, and the members of the cast sure are enjoying themselves. It looks like OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY is going to be a great success.

JAKE. P. S. Judging from all the nice things said about it, OUR HEARTS WERE YOUNG AND GAY really was a great success.

ARSENIC AND OLD LACE

[JAKE, ambling along at a slow pace down the first floor of the East Wing, pauses a moment at the door of E14, seems to hear some surprising talk.]

MAN'S VOICE. There's a body in there . . .

VOICE. You remember those jars of poison that have been up on the shelves in Grandfather's laboratory all these years?

VOICE. Well, dear, for a gallon of elderberry wine I take one teaspoonful of arsenic, then add a half teaspoonful of strychnine and then just a pinch of cyanide.

JAKE. [Rushes madly into Mr. Gray's office.]

MR. GRAY. What's wrong, Jake? Your face looks a little green around the edges. You just see the skeleton in the laboratory or something?

JAKE. N-No. Two people—sounds like old ladies—are talking about how they are going to poison somebody. Maybe they are thinking of you; there have been some attacks made before, you know.

MR. GRAY. [Starts to laugh in a hearty and quite relieved manner.] You must have heard the kids practicing for the senior play. It is ARSENIC AND OLD LACE.

JAKE. Well, I'll be diddledy dad burned. I didn't know that—ought to tell janitors something once in a while.

MR. GRAY. Should be a pretty good play; they have wanted to produce it for a long time. The cast is well chosen, and I wouldn't be surprised if it turns out very well. Everyone is working hard on it.

JAKE. Thanks, Mr. Gray. Next time I won't be quite so hasty 'bout things. It did give me quite a scare. [He moves away from Mr. Gray's office but still seems to be shaking on his pins.]

SANTA AND HIS HELPERS

CHRISTMAS

Christmas was a little late, but a lot brighter, for about a thousand Navajos near Oraibi, Arizona, because of the interest and enthusiasm of the community and the Alhambra High School students. This interest grew out of Frances Von Helm's new job, which took her to the Faith Mission in Arizona. Under Mr. Ingold's direction more than two tons of canned and packaged food was given as a Christmas project. This food was carried by truck to the Navajos.

Widely known for their generosity, Alhambra students felt a new thrill in this work; their Christmas was a little brighter too.

Dearest Jack.

I have really had fun going places with you while in Calif. Even though we were school kids. I still think "East" & "Granite" had both schools beat. I think you're one of the ~~best~~ <sup>best</sup> guys I know & think a lot of you. From the way I hear you seem to make a big hit with the girls. I guess I don't ~~have~~ <sup>have</sup> a chance. or do I ha ha —? To get serious I want to wish you the best of luck in every thing you do. I hope you get every thing you deserve out of life Jack, because a guy like you should have it. You've got a good head & make sure you keep it that way in every thing you do.

Have a good time this summer Jack and I'll be looking for you. Be good now ad" & stay out of trouble.

I think a lot of you Jack & I always will.

By forever.

Love & Kisses

HONOR SOCIETIES

JAKE. Los Laureados — now that's a fancy name. But it stands for something big and pretty wonderful. I don't know what the name means, but Mrs. Thornton does. Won't you tell us.

MRS. THORNTON. I'd be glad to, Jake. It is wonderful, and it's big and important to the seniors. It means "the laurel winners". Probably it could be considered the high school equivalent of university honors. What boy or girl wouldn't be happy with that title associated with his name?

JAKE. You make it sound great.

MRS. T. Jake, it is great. The organization provides the school with an opportunity to designate certain people as real leaders. I'm proud to be associated, as adviser, with such a group as Los Laureados.

JAKE. [Fussing and talking to himself.] It's no wonder that danged door is sagging on its hinges. I'll bet I've seen nearly two hundred kids go into W31. Suppose Miss Liesveld's feedin' 'em? Think I'll look in. [Opens door.] Why, uh, pardon me. Couldn't figure what was going on in here. It's all right; I'll get this room later.

MISS LIESVELD. Come in, Jake. We are just leaving.

JAKE. What's all the commotion?

MISS L. You see, grades have just come out, and these studnts are getting scholarship blanks which the teachers will sign, provided the grades are good enough.

JAKE. That's wonderful. Makes a pretty exclusive club of your organization, doesn't it?

MISS L. Yes, it does. However, with more liberal requirements students who specialize in some of the non-academic fields enjoy the same privileges as the others.

JAKE. What do you mean, "privileges"?

MISS L. It is a privilege to belong to the Scholarship Society. The rewards are many. There is personal satisfaction in knowing you have achieved high grades; and the holiday from school each semester is not hard to take.

JAKE. Yeh, I see what you mean. Golly, you have to bribe kids nowadays to be smart, even.

WANTA JOIN?

JAKE. This is the foyer of the auditorium. Up there watching over things is the moth-eaten moose head, and along the walls are the trophy cases. Guess those trophies are pretty important, by the looks of those two girls standing there gazing at them. Let's listen in on what they're saying about the big trophy in the center of the case.

SENIOR GIRL. I sure wish our club could win that one.

FROSH GIRL. Pardon me, but what's so good about it?

SENIOR. Help, what's so good about it!!!

FROSH. Yes, you'd think it meant everything the way the girls yelled about it in the last award assembly. That yelling had me worried; I thought there was a mouse in the auditorium. What's the trophy for anyway?

SENIOR. That's right; you're new around here, aren't you? Well, the trophy's awarded to the best service club president, and I suppose just about every president wants to win it. It's called the Higgins Trophy in memory of the first commissioner of clubs, Doc Higgins.

FROSH. I guess it's pretty good if you win it, huh! By the way, aren't there other clubs besides service clubs?

SENIOR. Oh, yes! All sorts of them. There are the department ones like the Spanish and Science clubs, and interest clubs such as the Broadcasters and Jr. Statesmen. It seems like there's a club for everyone and everything in Alhambra High. They're always doing something, too, what with meetings and social events.

[The girls wander off talking excitedly about different clubs and what they do. As their voices die away, Jake slowly pushes his broom down the aisle of the auditorium.]

JAKE. Sure are. Why those club kids are always into something. Claim they're trying to raise some money for the treasury. And they'll do just about anything from selling busted cookies to gettin' stray cats out of trees. Mrs. Crosswhite insists that clubs build characters, and some of them sure are.

"CLEAN-LIMBED YOUNG ATHLETES"

JAKE. You've seen quite a bit of our school by now—faculty, student body, clubs. But there's another side, too. Sports. Yep, we have them here at AHS, same as other schools. And you might be surprised to learn that Alhambra gets her share, and then some, of the trophies and awards. Take football, for instance. That's our big event around here. We didn't do too bad this year—came within a hair of winning the league championship. Let's look in on the football banquet for a recount of the season.

MARTIN FUZZWIT. (speaker for the evening). And here at AHS you have taken these clean-limbed young athletes and molded them into a grrreat . . .

SOWERS. Lefty, you don't look so clean-limbed to me. In fact I don't think you bothered to wash your paws for this shindig.

STROUD. It's a stain—won't come off. Honest, Coach.

WHITHAM. And you, Lynn, when are you going to get a respectable haircut?

PATRICK. Yeh. The back of his head looks like the south end of a north-bound duck.

LYNN. Gee, Coach, all the right guys wear their hair this way.

FUZZWITT. . . . and faced by many handicaps and always acquitting yourselves creditably, you young lads . . . .

SOWERS. Handicaps is right. Not only did we have to play a tough Mark Keppel team, but Old Man Weather was in the game too.

CUSHMAN. You can have your foul nights. I'll take a good hot afternoon.

HATCH. That's right. There's nothing like them to sweat five pounds off the boys. For a while I was afraid my Cees would melt down to nothing.

WHITHAM. Still, you didn't do so bad with your midgets. You lost only two games.

PATRICK. The Jayvees did pretty well too, Chuck. You just dropped the opener to Poly by one touchdown. The rest you won.

SOWERS. Say, while all these orchids are being passed out, don't forget Cecil over there. After all, the Bees have won their league title for three straight years.

EVERYBODY. Speech, speech.

CUSHMAN. Quiet, you're drowning out the speaker.

FUZZWITT. . . . and with a catch in my voice I shout Huzzah! for that noble spirit that enables . . . .

JAKE. Wonder why that guy doesn't hire a hall. The kids have gotten their awards and their eats. I don't blame 'em for being fidgety, listening to all that guff.

AFTER THIRTY WINS

JAKE. I'll never forget Monday, March 12. Let's look back. There are sure a lot of long faces around here today, and you can't blame the kids. Why everybody says this is the greatest basketball team Alhambra has ever had. What happens? They lose one game, after twenty-seven wins, and wind up third in the C. I. F. Somebody's wrong. There's a couple of sad looking customers eating their lunch. Wanta listen in?

FAN. Cheer up, Bill. It was a great season even if we didn't take the C. I. F. Averaging seventy points a game is not to be sneezed at.

BILL. Yeah, and thirty consecutive games without a loss. Lots of honors this season too. We won the Pasadena and Western States tournaments and the Pacific League.

FAN. Those high scores made some of the coaches think that Coach Miller was pouring it on. Wonder how Keppel felt?

BILL. How about Ron Bane and Chuck Reilly? Bane was really the fair-haired boy this year, and Chuck wasn't far behind. Both of them C. I. F.

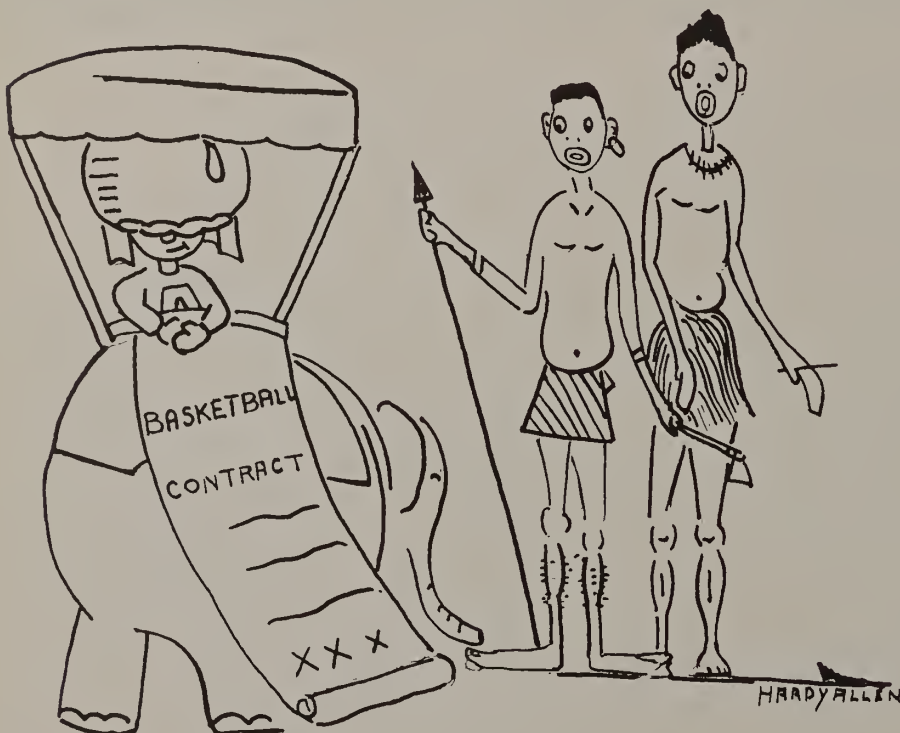

FAN. Coach Miller sure did a whale of a job. Those other Moor teams were overshadowed by all the Varsity's success.

BILL. What do you mean? The Bees tied for first in league play and went clear to the finals in the tournament at Santa Monica.

FAN. Those Cees were the real hard luck kids. I never saw a team lose so many games by two or three points. And those Dees never gave up. They tried hard to defend their title.

BILL. And when you figure that the Jayvees were pretty well wrecked when their top players were declared ineligible for playing in the church league —

FAN. But we can't feel downhearted. This has been a terrific season!

ORIN ALLEN. You know, Frank, when you get right down to it, this year so far has been one of our best track seasons in quite a while.

FRANK CLAYTON. Yeah, I guess you're right. Things didn't start out so well. You know what I mean—that little party at Excelsior when it rained, and we had to swim through the mud in our sweat suits. But since then we've done pretty well—beat Pasadena.

RON LOY. And that second place we took in the Pasadena Games was kind of new for Alhambra. We just trailed Keppel by a measly two points.

ORIN A. And the Cees and Bees haven't done so badly either.

CECIL ALLEN. No lie, we Cees really clobbered Burroughs. Of course they only had five men on their whole squad, but that wasn't our . . .

LOY. Isn't it a glorious day!

FEOLA. You'd better keep Gloria out of this. If thinking about her causes you to hit one of those hurdles . . .

MR. CUSHMAN. Cummon, you guys, get the lead out! You think this is debate practice or something?

JAKE. You're right, Mr. Cushman, it isn't debate practice, and all the boys worked hard. They scarcely had time to say as much as they did here. We couldn't include the whole season because this annual went to press before it was over. But I just thought you might like to hear from some of our tracksters.

DEAR, JACK.

I BEEN TAKEN BEATING YOU IN TRACK, YOU HAVE GOT LOTS OF ODDS, BUT YOU BEST VIDENT HAVE THE OLD COLLEGE TRY IN THE FINISH, ITS ALSO BEEN NICE HAVEN'T YOU IN LAGO, I REALLY THINK YOUR A GOOD GUY, AND ALL KIDDING

Row 3: Trancone, Fry, Murphy, Day, Carr, Sheets, Mahan, Rizzio, Palermo, Trigon, Drake, Jennings, Triance, Hatch (coach).

GOLF

The coachless trap shot experts and slice specialists, plus Berg and his bogey hat, fourteen boys in all, have found the going a little r-r-rough. With two Monrovia meets under their belts, they are looking for better days as the book goes to press. There are still Mark Keppel, Whittier, and possibly Montebello to be considered.

TENNIS

JAKE. I was supposed to see Ed Dill in the boiler room. Guess I'll walk down that way. [Stops by tennis courts.] There's Coach Whitham.

COACH WHITHAM. Hi, Jake!

JAKE. How's the tennis team?

COACH W. You know, I would never have thought anyone in California could claim that rainy days held up anything, but that's what has happened to us. Here it is, the middle of April, and we were able to get in only about two or three matches before league play started.

JAKE. The little fellow over there is playing pretty good tennis.

COACH W. Yeh,, and he's only a sophomore. [Interrupted.] Excuse me. Now, Angie, you play the winner of that match on Thursday and then . . .

JAKE. So it goes.

BASEBALL

JAKE. There's one thing I don't like about the hours I have to work. Never get a chance to see the kids play baseball. That's a game I enjoy; played it when I was a kid. Maybe they'll get some lights and play at night. A lot more of us fiends could get in on it that way. Have you ever wondered what goes on in practice? Let's look in.

MR. HATCH. Plamondon, I'm telling you and Hollinger that you'd better get a move on or you'll be catching for the Jayvees. My boy Cos is outhustling you. He moves around.

MR. PATRICK. And, Jack, you're playing baseball, not roundball. In this game you work from the ground up.

MR. H. Wonder what Seymour was thinking about when he missed that fly the other day, right in the middle of the game.

MR. P. Yeh, Jo certainly keeps that guy's mind off baseball. He's got stars in his eyes.

GOFF. Who has to ride with Coach Patrick tomorrow?

WESTLUND. You do. That's your punishment for muffing that easy one the other day.

JAKE. That will give you an idea about the important matters under discussion. From what I hear the kids could go places this season. They've shown flashes of real class.

Well
Sack, I'm glad to see that you made it to class
on time once in a while.
George
Sackman

GIRLS SPORTS

JAKE. You know, the other day I saw a pretty funny sight—girl with the biggest, darkest, juiciest looking shiner there has been in many a moon. Asked her how she got it but didn't get an answer. I think that's the one coming down the hall. [He sets down a trash can and begins to talk to the girl.]

GIRL. Yes, I got this shiner in a different way. Miss Reeves, the G. A. A. adviser was helping us to learn tennis . . .

JAKE. Don't tell me that sweet, gentle little lady has such a cruel heart as that!

GIRL. No, No! Some girl socked me; we sort of disagreed on the score. Anyway, this was in the G. A. A. That's some club if you like basketball, softball, tennis, bowling, horseback riding, badminton, or a number of other sports I could name. We always have a few interschool playdays; gets the girls out of class, if nothing else. Yes, we do have quite a time.

JAKE. When do you meet? Every night?

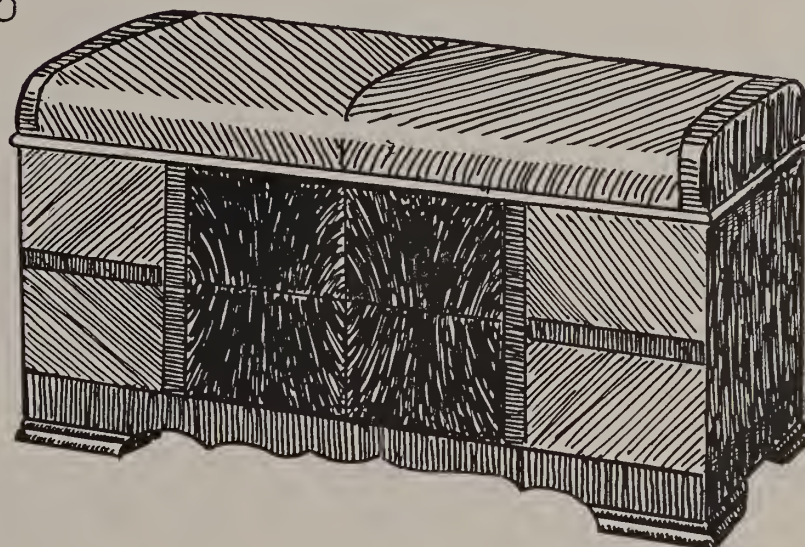

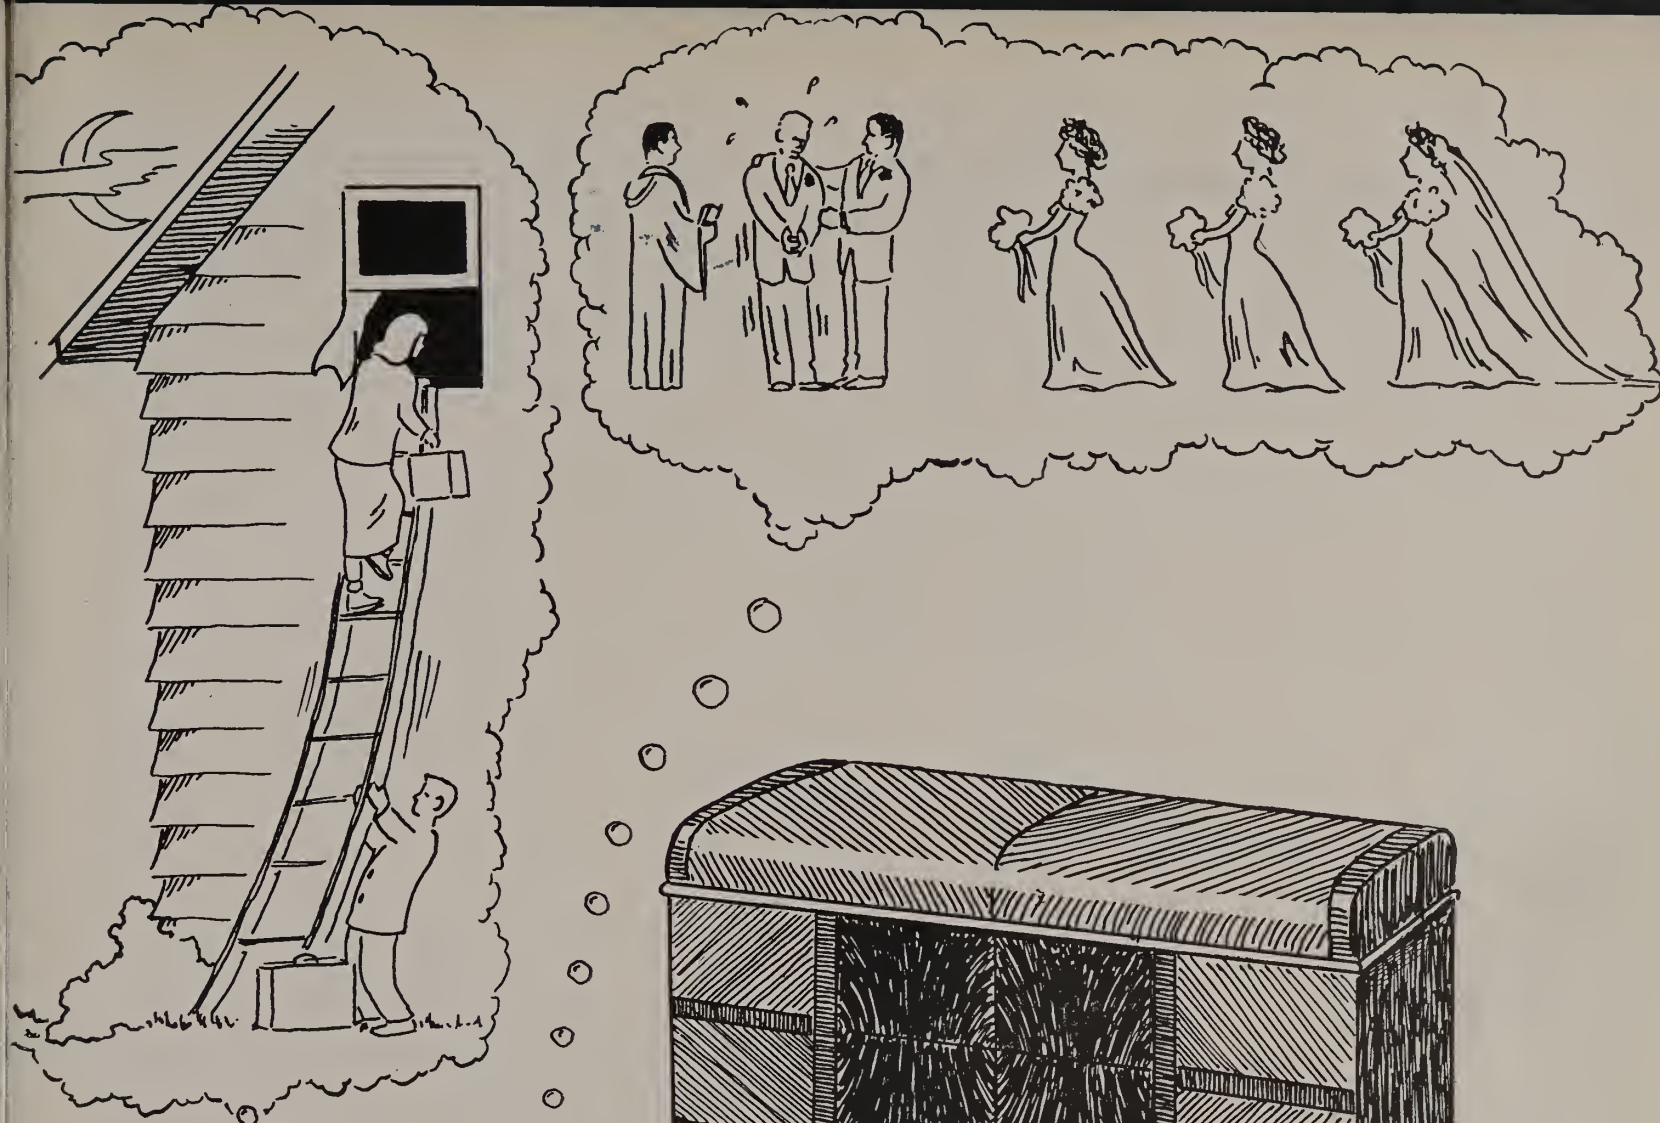

GIRL. Well, the different sports are played at different times, such as bowling on Mondays, basketball on Tuesdays, and so on. I have to scamper along now. We have a little practice to do for our next playoff. So long, Jake.

JAKE. So long. [He picks up his rather large collection of odd appearing materials and moves off again, thinking of the days when the members of the fairer sex were chiefly concerned that everyone should think of them as shrinking violets.] A black eye yet. And all over a tennis score.
